TYLER STALEY, EVENT MANAGER

THE CHEVY BOWTIE — BUILDING BRAND LOYALTY FOR DECADES

Hello and welcome to the 2013 GM Nationals! As the new event manager for 2013, I cannot describe how excited I am to be hosting this fantastic show. For my first year here at the GM Nationals, I have decided to focus on a particularly interesting car in GM's history — the family of Turbo Buicks produced from 1978 to 1987. These cars brought a new era of performance to the masses, and they have been a favorite of mine for years. 2013 is an important milestone for this family of cars, as it marks 35 years of the start of the program, and a little more than 25 years since the last Grand National rolled off the assembly line. I hope everyone will enjoy these unique cars during the show. I also hope you enjoy the special guests and activities I have planned for this year's show, including special guest Bobby Allison and the autocross rides being provided by Detroit Speed and UMI Performance.

Being able to claim "I'm a gearhead" is something all of us are proud to say. The fact that a gearhead can stand and enjoy listening to an engine idle, or find beauty in the curves and lines of a car, makes this hobby and its crowd incredibly unique. I'm proud to say I will always be a car nut, and it is an amazing opportunity to work with a group of people who love cars the way I do. This is not just a car show, but a gathering of like-minded enthusiasts who love everything there is about the automobile. Without enthusiasts like you, these kinds of shows would not exist, so I sincerely thank you for your support. I look forward to meeting and speaking with the people who helped to make this show a great destination for GM fans. Have a fun and safe weekend, and thanks for coming to the 2013 Carlisle GM Nationals. I'd love to hear your opinions about the event. Please take a few minutes to complete the survey on our website.

— Tyler Staley, Event Manager

There are no more devoted car people than GM lovers. Over the years, GM's products, from trucks to wagons to muscle cars and Corvettes, have grown with us. It seems like once you get the addiction, it sticks with you, and there's always a cool car from the General — both old and new — to fill whatever need you might have. By dealing in sheer volume, GM has made it really easy to be brand-loyal.

While I've owned a lot of different cars from different manufacturers over the years, I've been a GM guy since day one, thanks to a family that's been all GM since before I was born. My dad's first car was a black '56 Chevy 210 on slicks. He later bought a '68 SS 396 Camaro, a '69 SS 396 El Camino, and a '70 Chevelle SS 454 LS6. My mom had a '78 Firebird in bright yellow. We had old Chevy and GMC trucks around when I was a kid, and every car we had while I was growing up wore a bowtie on the grille, too.

I'm sure a lot of you can identify with that — after all, this is one of the largest all-GM events in the country. If you're here, you've got a love for the cars that made General Motors legendary, and you're in the best place to see a little bit of everything the company has built over the years. From vintage classics all the way through modern Corvettes and muscle, it's here this weekend.

American Car Collector magazine covers Chevrolets, Buicks, Cadillacs, Oldsmobiles, Pontiacs and GMCs sold at auction in every issue. If you're at all interested in what your car, or a car you'd like to own, might be worth, you owe it to yourself to check out a copy. Pick up a free issue at Vendor Services, Guest Services, or at the Food Court, and check out our ad in this guide for a special subscription offer.

And above all, have fun this weekend!

— Jim Pickering, Editor, American Car Collector

DENNIS KIRBAN

ANDREW FILIPPONE JR.'S DOCUMENTARY, "BLACK AIR"

Special Guest Bobby Allison

Meet NASCAR Hall of Fame driver Bobby Allison on Saturday and see his Miller High Life Buick in Building T. Join us in celebrating the 25th anniversary of his victory in the 1988 Daytona 500. His son Davey finished second in that race, marking the only time in race history that a father/son duo took the top two spots. See him in Building T from 10 a.m. to noon. More on page 14.

Special Guest Dennis Kirban

Dennis Kirban, the legendary Turbo Buick and Hurst memorabilia collector, will be presenting two seminars on Saturday at the Carlisle GM Nationals. Kirban started selling parts for GTOs in the late '70s and later moved on to the Turbo Buicks of the '80s. Since 1987, Kirban has been a go-to source for Turbo Buick parts, advice and even the cars themselves. Kirban's shop is located in Plumsteadville, PA, and is a hot spot for many Turbo Buick enthusiasts. Kirban has been highly regarded as one of the most knowledgeable sources of Turbo Buick information in the industry, and he carries a full line of quality products for this family of cars. Kirban will offer two seminars on Saturday of the GM Nationals. Be sure to visit his website, KirbanPerformance.com, and browse the hundreds of parts he has available for your car.

Special Guest Andrew Filippone Jr.

Independent filmmaker Andrew Filippone Jr. will be a special guest this year at the GM Nationals. Filippone was the producer, director and editor of the documentary film "Black Air: The Buick Grand National Documentary." The film was started in January of 2009 and finished in December of 2012. Filippone made the documentary out of his own interest and based it around the uniqueness of the Grand National and its followers. Filippone will be fielding questions about his film and recording interviews for the sequel. Don't miss the chance to visit his seminars and pick up this great addition to any gearhead's movie collection.

Diagnostics by Paul Koerner

cars. He will present seminars to help you with all of your GM diagnostic questions and needs.

Cacklefest

Bruce Larson, a local drag-racing legend, will start his USA-1 Camaro and Corvette while the crowd listens to the roar of his famous dragsters and smells the "fuel." # BOBBY ALLISON: RACING LEGEND

My Morning with Bobby Allison

By Mike Garland

Our celebrity guest this weekend, Bobby Allison, is very special. He's a loving father, husband and a racing legend. He's also a kind man and a religious man. Bobby Allison may remind you of your dad, your grandfather or your best friend and Bobby Allison is someone that I had the chance to spend a morning with on April 8, 2013.

Sometime in early March, an idea popped into my head that in order to best promote Bobby's visit to Carlisle, I should travel to North Carolina and speak with him face-to-face. I traded countless e-mails with his daughter, Bonnie Allison-Farr, I compiled a ridiculously long list of questions and I panicked up until the very last second as to how I'd film the session. After all, I am just one man and TV production wasn't my educational focus in college. I've seen a few people do the "one-man band" thing, so I thought why not ... can't be that hard. FYI, it's not easy.

The day before the interview, I was walking up and down pit row at Martinsville Speedway in Virginia in front of that day's Sprint Cup race. Bonnie advised that I should call his house and provide an update as to my Monday schedule. She noted that I might get the machine because Bobby and his wife have church commitments. First, how cool is that? I was calling Bobby Allison's house! I grew up watching NASCAR in the '80s with my dad. I remember names like Gant, Waltrip, Petty, Yarborough, Richmond, Earnhardt, Wallace, Baker and, of course, Allison — Bobby and Davey. As I was leaving this message, I thought about how rewarding my work can be at times.

As Monday morning arrived, I phoned the Allison home again to let them know I was coming. Judy, his wife, answered and provided an audible to my plans. She said that instead of coming by the house, that I should meet him at a place called Memory Lane Auto Museum in Mooresville. The location was a 60-minute drive for me, a one-exit difference off I-77 for him and as fate would have it, we pulled into the parking lot at the same time. There I was, popping out of my rental car and running over to him like we've known each other for years. After all, we had business to tend to. I gave him my card and he responded with his; which was not only autographed but in general, much cooler than mine.

After he and I set up my mobile studio within the museum, that's right, he helped me ... I proceeded to ask him my list of 42 questions over the span of 90 minutes. His stories were amazing. We discussed his start in Florida, his move to Alabama, how the name "The Alabama Gang" came around, safety within NASCAR today, his flirtation with the Indy Car series and so much more. Out of respect, I did not ask about the major tragedies in his life, and there were many. He lost two sons, had his career ended by a horrific accident at Pocono and he and Judy even divorced for a bit. With all the amazing aspects of his career, why rehash the darker times in his life?

We did discuss the Pocono wreck because it has significance related to what should have been a great career highlight. As Bobby told me the story about the accident, he shared that because of it, he still has no recollection of he and his late son Davey finishing first and second respectively at the 1988 Daytona 500. It's been 25 years almost to the day (June 19, 1988) that his accident at Pocono nearly took his life, ended his career and mentally erased the greatest achievement a father/son racing duo could hope for.

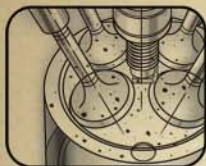

Bobby noted, "I had memory loss from the crash at Pocono and I do not remember 1988 NASCAR racing. I keep hoping that the memory will come back to me. I understand it was a pretty neat deal. I've watched the race and I really enjoy watching it, but it looks like a movie to me. I don't get any feeling back when I see it but I really hope I do get that memory back some day."

Two more great things that I took away from this adventure were a comment Bobby made and one made by Buz McKim, historian for the NASCAR Hall of Fame in Charlotte. First, when I asked Buz about the family tragedies, he told me "Bobby's never been negative. He's been asked time and again if he ever talks to God about the bad stuff. He doesn't because he'd have to ask God about the good stuff too. He has a very positive attitude and realizes that this is life and you have to deal with. He's just an amazing guy."

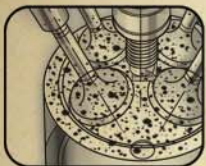

Finally, I asked Bobby what people should expect when they meet him. His response was simply stated, "None of us are really strangers, we're just friends that haven't met."

So meet an old friend here at Carlisle and enjoy the full series of interviews online by clicking the YouTube channel of the Carlisle GM Nationals.

The Turbo Buick Offers A New Take On Muscle

By Tyler Staley

I've been a fan of muscle since I was 13. When I helped my dad restore his 1968 Ford Torino GT, there was a sudden passion instilled in me that never left. I found the raw power of a V8, the smell of premium gas, and the rumbling exhaust all too enticing to ignore. For the longest time, I always thought that muscle cars had officially died in the early 1970s, never to really be resurrected...at least in the traditional sense.

As my enthusiasm for cars continued, I began to research and learn about other American cars with unique histories and backgrounds. One car I found particularly amazing was that of the Turbo Regal family of Buicks in the 1980s. The most famous of these cars were the Grand National and the GNX, but all the cars in this family were impressive. The fact that a turbocharged six-cylinder engine could outrun almost anything in the 1980s was fascinating enough, but it was a Buick! Rarely is Buick viewed as the performance-oriented type of car brand. However, Buick certainly made itself a brand to be reckoned with in the 1980s. In an era of lackluster performance and strangulating emissions regulations, a boxy Buick with six cylinders took on the role of a new type of muscle car.

The most popular of the Turbo Regals was the Grand National, and its performance and popularity peaked in 1987. The Grand National, with its all-black paint job, looked like the guy with slicked-back hair and a black leather jacket leaning against the wall in high school — someone you do not want to mess with. Zero to 60 only took roughly six seconds, and the Grand National had 245 horsepower on tap and enough torque to shift your internal organs (355 ft-lb, to be exact). To make things even more insane, the 1987 GNX, “the Grand National to end all Grand Nationals,” pumped out an incredible 276 horsepower and 360 lb-feet of torque. The formula for the GNX is simple: Air is drawn into the McLaren-tuned turbo six-cylinder engine, then the boost builds, the rear tires burst into flames, the driver smiles the biggest smile in history, and the car launches like a rocket to 60 mph in merely 4.7 seconds. All of this from a 3.8-liter engine, in a Buick, in the 1980s...who'd have thought?

Needless to say, the Turbo Buicks were all very impressive cars, and they redefined what muscle and performance meant in the car world. A car with only six cylinders and a Buick badge became one of the fastest production cars of the 1980s — an amazing feat, if you ask me.

VENDOR PROFILE: TOTALLY STAINLESS

Event Manager Got His Start At This Local Family-Owned Business

By Mike Garland

When it comes to automotive restoration, there are tons of details to work out. You need to be sure you have all the proper sheet metal, engine components, the right suspension package, etc. One thing many people may not consider right away, however, is how to hold all of these parts onto their car. This is where the crew from Totally Stainless Inc. steps in with one of the widest selections of stainless steel fasteners in the country. The business also features a full machine shop for some of those tricky, oddball fasteners that no one produces. Best of all, the company has decades of combined experience, having done work on multiple generations of cars and trucks since its inception.

The founder and CEO, "Doc" Hammett, has been a car nut since he was a child. Doc and his brothers were always tinkering on something, and the world of cars was familiar to him at an early age. As a mechanical engineer and graduate of Penn State University, Doc has acquired an immense amount of knowledge about the automotive applications of stainless fasteners. Ask why Doc chooses to only work with stainless steel and the answer is simple.

"It doesn't rust," said Doc. "We have done some great things product-wise, especially for the GM market. Basically, we've been able to reproduce everything that GM has made with stainless steel and we can provide something for everyone for model years between 1941 and the late '80s. Nuts, bolts and fittings, if you can bolt and unbolt it, we have it."

The small family-owned business has been providing stainless fasteners for automotive restoration for around 20 years. Totally Stainless has a unique take on automotive restoration, as the company sells complete kits for a variety of vehicles and drive-train parts. Working on a 1968 Camaro? Totally Stainless has literally every nut, bolt and screw that goes on your vehicle. Each part comes in neatly organized kits that take the guesswork out of restoring your ride. Even better, you can order fasteners that are OEM-style and mimic the factory bolts. Do you also need bolts for your engine, transmission, suspension and rear? Totally Stainless has those bases covered too.

Totally Stainless is special for a few other reasons, too. First, they are local and have business operations in Aspers, PA (about 22 miles from Carlisle). Secondly, they have a very special meaning to one person onsite this weekend, GM event manager Tyler Staley. Staley was an employee of Doc's. Doc and Tyler's father have been friends for years, too. Tyler worked for Doc as a salesperson, tech advisor, machinist's assistant and just about any other position you could imagine at the company.

"I began working at Totally Stainless shortly after I turned 16," noted Staley. "During my time with them, nearly seven years, I gained more and more responsibilities related to sales, technical advice and even machinist work. Needless to say, Totally Stainless gave me a ton of knowledge about the automotive industry, and I am glad I had a chance to work there."

"Tyler started with us when he was in high school, working after school and during the summer," noted Doc. "He is a smart guy that works well with others and is very bright and outgoing. For someone that went to college and graduate school with a focus on history and the goal to become a teacher, it's great to see he's landed a job doing something he's passionate about. When we worked together, he traveled with me to many of the 12 annual events we do, and he proved that he's the right person for the job he has."

As a car kid and now car guy, it's only natural that Tyler would find work doing something he loves, both with Doc and now at Carlisle. Ultimately, it is from Doc and his business that Tyler gained so much knowledge about the automotive hobby and industry. In fact, because of the Doc/Tyler/Carlisle Events relationship, Totally Stainless has purchased five spaces for the event this weekend. Keep in mind that while Totally Stainless has been onsite for our Spring and Fall events for many years, this weekend marks the first time since at least 2004 that they've been part of a specialty event. Their presence this weekend is a direct result of their belief in both the event and Tyler Staley as its new leader.

So, if you are having trouble finding a certain fastener for your car, or simply have some questions about which bolts go where, look no further than Totally Stainless. With a huge knowledge base and an impressive array of kits and products, Totally Stainless is a great place to find just about anything for your project. You can reach them at 1-800-767-4781, visit their website at www.totallystainless.com, or just talk to them in person under the grandstand (Building Z) in spaces 23-27.

BELL FAMILY RACING

Father and Daughters Share Passion for Hobby

By Mike Garland

The automotive world is primarily male-dominated. From car owners showing at Carlisle today and at our other events, to the automotive and racing world as a whole, the numbers strongly support the fact that more men are active within the hobby/sport than women. The good thing is, numbers are also showing that more females are getting involved, both here at Carlisle and within the racing community. Nationally, Danica Patrick leads the way from a female recognition standpoint. Other female drivers include Debrah "Medusa" Miceli (monster truck driver), Ashely Force-Hood (NHRA Racer) and Pippa Mann (Indy Car driver). Closer to home, Joy Abdalla is an enthusiast who shows a car that won a best-of-show award at Carlisle Performance & Style in 2012, plus P&S overall featured a display dedicated to female owners/enthusiasts just last month.

All of these names and points of reference have been used to set up this particular story, a story about a man named Rick Bell and his daughters, all three of whom race. Rick's three kids range in age and interests. Amber is 11 and races a Junior Dragster, Allison is 19 and competes in a 1968 Camaro dragster, while Heather is 23 and also races the Camaro. Amber and Allison are active this season, while Heather is taking a year off for family reasons.

In knowing what they do now, it's fair to wonder how the kids got to where they are today. The story can date back to Rick's career and a chance evening in front of the TV. When he did race, Rick would bring his girls to the track. They always enjoyed watching races and when Heather was born, Rick slowed up a bit. Around this same time, in 2003, the movie "Right on Track" came out. Between having been to Rick's races and enjoying the movie, the girls wanted to give it a go. So ... give it a go Rick did.

At first, Heather and Allison shared a car, and then in 2003, when the Bell family started participating in NHRA/IHRA Junior Drag Racing, each girl got her own Junior Dragster. At that point, dad decided it was time to send them off to drag-racing school, Doug Foley's Drag Racing School, to be exact.

Over the years, Rick's kids have become quite good at racing. In 2012, ESPN filmed Amber for a special E:60 segment. Allison is a two-time National Team Champion, and Heather has won one championship.

In a sport where cars can exceed 300 m.p.h. (these cars don't), what does Rick think of what his kids do? "I totally support the girls in their drag-racing endeavors. It is safer than many other sports and we get to participate as a family."

While most races take place at their home track of Maple Grove Raceway near Reading, PA, he and his girls travel quite a bit, too. "We compete at many other tracks like Beaver Springs, Numidia, Mason Dixon, Bristol Dragway (Tennessee), Cecil County, Maryland and many others," added Rick. "It's so fun as a dad to be able to spend time with my girls doing what we all do."

Vehicles: GTO, All Years

The Capital City GTO Club started with just three members in 2005 and grew to well over 100 as of last year. Club members hail from all around the nation's capital, plus West Virginia, Maryland, Virginia, Delaware and Pennsylvania. CCGTO's first visit to Carlisle as a club was in 2007 and since then, they've been racking up the awards and recognition. They've been one of the top three clubs as part of the Club Challenge annually, including top honors in 2013.

Greater Northeast Impala SS Clubs

■ Registrations

Vehicles: Late-model Impalas and Caprices

In January 2001, local GM "B-body" club members from Connecticut, New York and Pennsylvania brought their late-model Impalas and Caprices to Carlisle's brand-new event — the GM Nationals. Since then, the club has been known as the Greater Northeast Impala SS Clubs (GNISSC). GNISSC has been a staple at Carlisle ever since. The club also has its hand in multiple charitable ventures, raising money at car shows, cruise nights and drag-racing events.

Mid Atlantic Fiero Owners Association

www.mafoa.com

The Mid Atlantic Fiero Owners Association is a tight-knit group of car owners who enjoy both working on and showing their cars. The Mid Atlantic Fiero Owners Association, or MAFOA for short, is one of the oldest Fiero clubs on the East Coast, having been in existence since the early '90s. The group sponsors several shows and activities throughout the year and attends functions of other Fiero clubs in the area. Anyone looking for a place to come and enjoy good conversation about the Fiero, look no further than the MAFOA.

American Car Collector

It's no secret that American car values have been on the move over the past few years, both up and down. It pays for buyers, sellers and owners to know exactly what's going on in the marketplace at any given time, and that information is exactly what American Car Collector magazine does best. Each issue of ACC contains more than 100 market reports on individual cars that have appeared at auction, with published sold prices highlighted by on-site evaluations that cover condition, originality and options. Not only do we tell you what a car sold for, we help you understand why. Every issue also includes in-depth profiles on cars from GM, Ford and Mopar, joined by Hot Rod, Race Car, Corvette and Truck. Whether you have one car or 20, ACC has the information that'll keep you on top of what's happening in the American collector-car world. Subscribe at americancarcollector.com.

Heacock Classic Insurance

Have you ever wondered what collector-car insurance is all about? It's simple: "passion." Heacock Classic Insurance knows that collector cars receive better care and are driven less than the family vehicle, therefore, classic car insurance rates are lowered. Our goal is to offer a custom, low-cost program designed to fit your needs. Collector car insurance from Heacock Classic provides "Agreed Value" coverage, full coverage during restoration, coverage for modifications, and your right to choose your own repair shop if your car is damaged. You also get to choose zero deductible and automatically get $50,000 coverage for 30 days when you purchase a new classic car. After you request a quote, a status report is usually ready within 24 hours. Then we will contact you to review it and hopefully activate your new insurance policy. It's simple, easy and the best way to properly protect your investment. Call us today at 800-678-5183 or online at www.HeacockClassic.com

RockAuto.com

RockAuto ships thousands of auto parts from over 200 manufacturers to customers on every continent except Antarctica — including APO/FPO addresses. The RockAuto catalog is updated daily with mechanical parts such as brake pads and shock absorbers, body parts such as bumpers and mirrors, interior trim such as door handles and carpets, and major assemblies like steering gears, CV axles, engine long blocks, and complete transmissions. There are no mechanics on staff (RockAuto is a store, not a repair shop) but service manuals are available to help customers learn how to perform a repair. The RockAuto catalog is expanding constantly. Someday, it may be possible to build an entire car using parts from RockAuto!
